

RE - What does it mean if God is holy and loving? Your guidelines for living.

Yesterday we talked about The Ten Commandments and the Humanist approach to living. We thought about how these fit with God being holy and loving and how Humanists share different views but have similar values to Christians. We would like you to think of your own guidelines to help people to live a happy life. These can be ideas from Christianity, Humanism, any other religion you have studied or simply your own values. Think about our school values - this may help. You can present your 'Guidelines to a happy life' in any way you choose. Some examples might be in a poster, on a PowerPoint presentation or using pictures as descriptions. We look forward to seeing your work 😊